

Audi South Dublin Sandyford Flagship Showroom

Euro Gas, working closely with Riverside Mechanical recently completed works on the new Audi South Dublin showroom.

This brand new, multi storey showroom and aftersales building replaces the existing Audi centre in Sandyford.

Given the nature of the building, the heating within the aftersales area is of critical importance. This huge service area can cope with 18 vehicles at one time. Riverside Mechanical turned to Euro Gas to help with this application.

The solution came in the form of Reznor Vision radiant tubes. These high efficiency radiant tube heaters deliver exceptional performance. As the units are hung from the ceiling, the radiant heaters produce infrared heat that is directed downwards to low level by the inbuilt reflectors. The energy passes inertly through the air, dissipating as heat upon contact with people and surfaces, thus creating comfortable, all round radiant warmth. This helps by reducing wasteful heating of empty spaces.

Tony Ptohopoulos, Managing Director Riverside Mechanical, commented “This was an extremely prestigious project for us due to the nature of the client. We needed to select a product which met the strict criteria which was presented to us. The Reznor units have really met this brief. The installation was straight forward and the performance has matched the client’s expectations. Euro Gas helped with the selection and also the flue design”

Martin Garvey, Managing Director Euro Gas, said, “We have worked with Reznor for a number of years now. These products suit this application perfectly. The back up and support in terms of design from Reznor is excellent. This means that all concerned have a clear picture of the layout and design even before starting on site”

The Reznor radiant heating portfolio include models ranging from 15kW through to 100kW in a single unit. All of these ranges are now fully ErP compliant meaning they comply with the latest regulations for seasonal efficiency and NOx.
